

VICTORIA'S STORY

Victoria was a young girl who loved to travel, to know new and strange countries. Victoria was a tall and brunette girl and she had got big brown eyes. She studied in her childhood many languages for travelling when she would be older. She always said that she would visit all the countries. During her first six years travelling she visited 40 countries but while she was traveling to Switzerland, the plane she was travelling on had an accident. At that moment, as the plane was descending trying to land in the least dangerous possible way, she saw her whole life go by...

When Victoria woke up she saw that she had a bloody hand and she saw corpses and pieces of the plane in the distance, she also heard cries for help. She was slow to get up but when she got up she realized that very few people had survived and they were at the top of a mountain in the Alps. Victoria was trying to help the wounded men while others tried to make fire in order to keep from freezing. The crew was 200 people and only about 50 had survived, half of them were injured and the other were about to die. The next day they decided that they could not wait to be found, so they decided to take the most useful and important things and go down the mountain. They had to leave people injured, some people were against letting them freeze to death and they stayed. Victoria decided to go with the group of 15 people. On the way down the mountain, people died of cold or hunger, they tried to eat and drink as little as possible. The week was hard, Victoria and her companions ate animals and ate the snow. More and more people were left behind, they decided to stay in a cave they found. It seemed that all was lost until Victoria heard something in the distance, they were mountain climbers, Victoria ran and asked for help. The mountaineers gave them food and water, then they took them to the bottom of the mountain but Victoria decided to go back up to help the people who were still alive. The mountaineers notified the police and they went by helicopter to search for other survivors. There was a huge snowstorm and Victoria was trapped, she eventually died of hypothermia and she was found a few weeks later. Victoria sacrificed her life to save the rest of the crew.

1- How many countries did Victoria visit in just six years?

2- Why did some of the survivors decide to keep on top of the mountain?

3- How much did you like the story? Give a mark from 1 to 5 (1 is the minimum and 5 maximum)